Victorious Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson watched his record-shattering vote climb steadily overwhelming unprecedented Republican opposition to win a bitter race for governor.

Campaigning as a leader of Southern opposition to President Kennedy and his Civil Rights programs, Johnson built up a lead of almost 2-1 over Republican Rubel Phillips to gain the office that eluded him for 16 years.

Reminding the voters he stood up for them at Ole Miss, Johnson used the slogan "Stand Tall With Paul" to record victories in two Democratic primaries and the general election.

However, the 38-year-old Phillips, a former Democratic state public service commissioner turned Republican, succeeded in making the young Mississippi Republican Party a factor in state politics. His statement conceding defeat sounded more like a call to arms than a surrender.

"We have lost a battle but we have not lost the war," he told cheering backers at GOP headquarters. "We now know that we have a strong two-party system in the state. As soon as I rest a few days, I am going back to practicing law and working for the Republican Party."

Former Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin, who lost a runoff for Governor to Barnett in the 1959 Democratic primary, won a third term by a smashing margin over Republican Standard Morse.

Gartin will be inaugurated Jan. 30 to succeed Johnson as lieutenant governor and Johnson will succeed Barnett as governor the following day. Barnett could not seek re-election under a Mississippi law prohibiting consecutive terms as governor.

Unofficial returns in Hancock County gave Johnson 1729 votes; Phillips, 888; Gartin 1775 and Morse 687.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

J. L. Bishop, Work Unit Conservationist of Brandon, formerly of Hancock County, who toured the Kennedy farm at Brandon recently during an SCS demonstration, says he believes a good many farmers in this county will be able to employ strip crop rotations to advantage on sloping land, particularly when they have fairly large farms and are raising livestock along with row crops.

C. H. and Guy Kennedy, Rank in county soil conservation district farmer cooperators, are among the first Mississippians to blaze a trail in this direction, although the practice has been widely used in other states.

In 1962 the Kennedys established a 35-acre pilot plot of strip crop rotations, using millet and Bahia in combination with cotton. This was so satisfactory from the standpoint of production, machinery operation and erosion control that, in the spring of 1963, they requested Soil Conservation Service assistance in laying out an additional 50 acres.

C. H. Kennedy says, "We can work any machinery now on the hills that we can on level land and, at the same time, protect our soil and get supplemental winter feed for our cattle."

The Kennedys got 1900 bales of browntop millet hay this year from the grass strips on 85 acres, with about 50 percent of the total acreage in grass, and expect to get better than a bale of cotton to the acre.

The Kennedy cousins have successfully operated their large diversified farm for more than 25 years. Since 1941 they have cleared some 900 acres of open land. Six hundred acres are now in pastures, 300 acres in row crops. The balance of their 2200-acre farm is in woodland, and they rent additional cotton land. For some time Guy Kennedy's son, Dan Henry Kennedy, has been associated in the family enterprise, and Tommy Kennedy, son of C. H. Kennedy and a recent Mississippi State College graduate in animal husbandry, will soon join them.

In the early 1940's the Kennedys were planting, cultivating and harvesting cotton with mule and hand pickers. Their cultivated hills were terraced. Then they shifted to tractor-drawn two-row equipment which could still be used on the terraced land with its short rows.

But when they purchased 4-row equipment, the terrace system would no longer work. The Kennedys, in an effort to hold their cotton acreage, plowed up and down the fields, with resulting damage to the land.

"The low places stayed wet too long, and the high places washed out," reported C. H. Kennedy. "We decided we would have to put the hills in pasture, or find some other method. So far strip cropping is working satisfactorily, and everybody who sees it likes it."

The advantages of strip crop rotations are many: (1) the close-growing strips take the place of terracing, prevent soil loss, and condition the ground for row crops during alternate years; (2) Long rows permit big equipment to operate with ease, and minimize "turn-around" time; (3) Row crops can benefit from a greater volume of water than the terrace; and (4) close-growing strips will produce supplemental feed for livestock.

Grassed waterways and field borders, which carry the water discharge from the rows, are essential to the successful strip-crop rotation. These, too, can be moved for hay - an important item with livestock growers who sometimes must rely entirely on hay and silage during severe cold weather such as Mississippi experienced in 1963.

According to James L. Bishop, work unit conservationist, SCS, Brandon, formerly of Bay St. Louis, rows are designed to fit the farmer's mechanized 2, 4 or 6-row equipment. Rows which will be harvested with a combine can be adjusted to the cutter-blade width.

The Kennedys are like numbers large farms and increased cotton of other Mississippi Farmers with acres which have been allotted to them as small row-crop farms have been diverted to other uses. They will grow cotton where it can be grown without severe land damage. They will utilize the grass strips in their livestock program.

The farmer with a small amount of land will not be able to "spare the land" that strip-row rotations take. He will continue to employ other methods.

The Hancock County Soil Conservation district accepted three farms in October, 1963. They were Mr. Jack Chevis; Mr. Kenneth McCarty, and Mr. R. A. Zengering of Bay St. Louis, Miss.

These farms represent 284 additional acres to the district program.

conservation plan, and J. P. Peterson, of the Dedeaux Community progressed his conservation plan to a basic plan. These two farms represent 96 acres of farm land. Farm conservation planning is a necessary and important phase of soil and water conservation. A basic plan is one in which a soil survey of the land is used as a blueprint or guide in providing the necessary foundation material for good conservation, not only in just the protection of the soil but in performing economic benefits for the land owner in his farming operations.

The soil survey tells the story of the kind of soil you have, where that particular soil is located on your place, and to the technician, it tells what it is best suited for. It also shows what conservation practices are needed to maintain its productivity. All of these things are included in the conservation plan.

For more information on soil and water conservation, contact your local soil conservation technician located in the Agricultural Center Building, Nicaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis, Miss.

For those intending to go fresh water fishing, the waters in Pearl and Jordan rivers are ideal. Exceptionally clear and real salty the fish are striking at their best. Underwater and surface baits are being used.

Early morning and late afternoon fishing bring best results. Due to low tides the fish are striking away from the banks where the bottom drops off.

Remember it is unlawful for any person to buy or sell or to offer for sale in this state any game birds, game animals or game fish. Provided, however, that the skins of opossums and raccoons may be bought and sold during the open season on such animals.

According to those catching shrimp for bait they have become a little scarce, but should pick up again. It is not necessary to keep shrimp alive for catching speckles. Lay them on a rag on the ice which will keep them fresh. Do not put them in water, they will turn white and become soft.

Pat Toomey is the new game warden. A swell guy. Help him do his job right. Have your new fishing and hunting licenses on your person at all times. It simplifies matters a whole lot.

Hours for hunting: It is unlawful for any person to hunt any game animals or birds during the night from sunset to one-half hour before sunrise either with or without the use of a light, except opossums, raccoons, rabbits and fox.

According to the laws of the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission, deer and turkeys cannot be hunted at any time south of Highway 90.

There is a split season in Mississippi, the first season opened on Oct. 19, and will close Nov. 12. The second season will open on December 2, and close Jan. 15. Sora rail and other rails and gallinules season opened on Oct. 1, and closes Nov. 19.

Seasons that are open now are doves, geese, marsh hens - (rails) rabbits and squirrel. The season on rabbits is November 1, through February 9. Bag limit, 5 per day; 10 in possession. Squirrel season opened Nov. 1st through January 11, 1967. Bag limit, 5 per day; 10 in possession.

For your information - No hunting can be done in the Test Site (which is under fence) at any time. Hunting outside the fenced-in part is allowed. Rifles are barred in this area.

Hunting seasons on ducks will be announced later.

Joint efforts of Louisiana Enforcement and Aviation Section resulted in the capture and conviction of a notorious violator who has shocked tremendous quantities of catfish in Red River. The violator, who had four prior convictions for game and boat violations, was this time sentenced to $75.00

J. C. McDONALD IS GUEST SPEAKER AT JAYCEE BANQUET

J. C. McDonald, Jaycee, state president of Kosciusko was guest speaker at the Jaycee banquet Friday night at Gus Stevens at Henderson Point. National director Charles Carter, who introduced Mr. McDonald, said the state president had traveled 250 miles to be with the club and cited such devotion to duty was an example of the type of young men in the Mississippi Jaycees.

Mr. McDonald said the state looks toward Bay St. Louis for outstanding leadership and he challenged the club to "grow and grow with the state of Mississippi".

A total of 110 paid members will be needed to fulfill the challenge Andre Arceneaux, Bay St. Louis Jaycee president, stated and he guaranteed a pick-up of 61 members in the next week.

Thomas O. Logue gave the invocation.

A skit on reactivation and orientation was presented by Logue and Jaycee past presidents.

Area vice president Raymond Mathers Gulfport, was a guest of the group.

Sixty active and prospective members attended the banquet.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. November 7 at the Jaycee Home.

OLDER 4-H YOUTHS MAKE FINE LEADERS

SPECIAL - When boys and girls stay in 4-H Club work through their mid-teens, they usually make notable progress in one or more phases of 4-H activities, according to the National 4-H Service Committee.

One of these categories is leadership development. In this program, members are actually helped by adult leaders to learn the meaning of responsibility, take on extra work and carry out special projects involving the entire club membership.

"The 4-H junior leader works under the guidance of the adult leader," explains Miss Emmie Nelson of the 4-H Service Committee. "These two, with help from the club, jointly determine jobs for the junior leader."

"They begin with familiar tasks and advance to the more difficult ones. These jobs must be challenging, but within the youth's grasp," she adds.

So leaders really are made and not born. In 4-H, that is. At the end of the year, 12 outstanding young people will be honored by their 4-H friends for having the best leadership ability in the 50 states. They will be selected by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Each will receive a $500 college scholarship and expense paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, the program sponsor. In addition, the state winner will enjoy a free trip to the 4-H Congress.

LOCAL SPORTSMAN

EDDIE HOELZEL

Eddie is one of our most ardent fishermen but claims he just hasn't time to go as he likes. He furnishes most of our local bars and other entertainment establishments with sandwiches made by him and Mrs. Hoelzel. He also caters to our local fishermen and hunters who love to take lunches with them.

Eddie is well known locally and at one time ran a fishing camp at the north end of the seawall. His specialty is catching any kind of fish as long as they are edible.

Edward J. Werling recently presented the past commander button to Donnie Ramelli, Squadron 139, Sons of American Legion, and Bobby Sanford, Samuel Piazza and Walter Turcotte, members of the National Rifle Association. The local club is sponsored by Clement R. Bontemps Post 139, American Legion.

BAY HIGH IN 6-0 TRIUMPH OVER SLIDELL

The Bay High Tigers defeated Slidell, La., 6-0 Thursday night in an inter-state football contest.

It was the final home game of the season for the Tigers of Coach Lance Lumpkin who have now won eight games and tied one.

Bay High will close out its season next Friday night at Ocean Springs against the Ocean Springs Greyhounds in a game which will decide the Gulf Coast Conference championship.

Thursday's lone touchdown was scored on the first play of the fourth quarter on a 14-yard pass from quarterback Johnny Penton to end Billy Thomas.

It was the 11th touchdown pass caught by Thomas this season.

Bay High got into scoring position by intercepting a Slidell pass. Mike Strong intercepted the pass on Slidell's 45-yard line and the Tigers drove down to score.

On three different occasions Slidell threatened to score, but each time was stopped by pass interceptions. Leroy Luke intercepted two of the aerials deep in Tiger territory, and Dick Watts pulled in the other.

Bay High did not offer another serious scoring threat during the contest.

Slidell picked up seven first downs to 13 for Bay High. The Tigers picked up 140 yards rushing to 57 for Slidell. It was a defensive battle all the way.

ROCKS, BURAS IN DEADLOCK

TIGHT DEFENSES HOLD SCORE TO 7-7

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws and the Buras Tigers failed to settle their differences when they played to a 7-7 deadlock here Friday night.

Buras scored its touchdown in the first period in driving 80 yards for Barney Blanchard to plunge over from the one. Chuck Wadley's conversion was good.

St. Stanislaus came back in the second quarter and drove 70 yards with James O'Neal scoring from ten yards out. Paul Weaver's kick knotted the contest 7-7.

Both teams had several scoring opportunities in the final period but strong line play by each squad out off chances of hitting paydirt.

Score by quarters:
Buras 7 0 0 0-7
St. Stanislaus 0 7 0 0-7

A do-it-yourself retirement plan that really works

Just a few pennies a day invested now in U.S. Savings Bonds can help you build security for the future.

Here's a retirement plan you can set up yourself, administer yourself with no fees or expenses, and go into with absolute confidence.

Start with Series E Bonds

You begin by buying E Bonds where you bank, or automatically on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. When you hold them for 17 years, 9 months, you get almost double your money back—$1.93 for every $1 invested.

When you retire, you can exchange your E Bonds for H Bonds. H Bonds may interest to you semi-annually in cash at 3.75% when held to maturity. There's no charge for trading. And the interest you accumulated before the trade is not taxable until you cash in your H Bonds.

A riskless plan

A U.S. Savings Bonds retirement plan is completely without risk. Your money keeps on growing, guaranteed by the Government. You can get it anytime you want—with interest. And if your Bonds are ever lost or destroyed, the Treasury replaces them free.

Why not look into this plan today?

Circuit Clerk of Hancock County, Miss

(SEAL)
My Commission expires 12/31/63

It has been brought to the attention of the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, that the Federal Housing Administration in Jackson, have advised certain proposed subdivision developers that there is no reason that would justify that agency to insure loans in the general area of Pearl River, Mississippi. It appears to the Board of Supervisors that a grave injustice is being done to Hancock County, by Federal Housing Administration, in refusing to insure loans in this County.

The Board feels deeply concerned over this attitude of Federal Housing Administration, and has decided to file an answer in said Cause.

The above motion was unanimously adopted by the Board.

CONTINUE HEARING OF PETITION

Upon motion of Supervisor Dean duly seconded by Supervisor Frierson that the hearing of Petition filed by Louis Schwab, et al, be continued until July 23, 1963, at 9:00 o'clock a. m.

The above motion was unanimously adopted by the Board.

FOREST FIRES

Fire season is here. Grass and woods are tender-dry. Just a spark could cause a serious fire.

These fires could take away all that dry grass you are planning to use for forage during the fall. Fire could destroy your barns, other farm buildings, stored hay and even your home.

Don't take chances. Keep fire out of your woods and fields. Any necessary burning that you must do, should be done with extreme care. Make sure that you have plenty of labor and machinery on hand to fight any fire that may get out of control.

It is also a real good idea to disk fire lanes between your woods and pastures, between your pastures and public roads and around barns and stacked hay.

LIMING SOIL

Right now is the best time to have lime spread on your pastures and row crop land. The ground is dry so that lime spreading trucks can get across fields easily.

If you are going to do fall plowing, apply lime before plowing so that it will become mixed with the soil.

How do you know whether or not your land needs lime? A soil test will give the answer.

Here are some of the things that lime does for you, in dolomite.

It supplies calcium and magnesium to the soil. It corrects the PH of acid soil - makes sour soil sweeter. It improves bacteria action in the soil - necessary for good growth from clovers and other legumes. It improves the efficiency of other fertilizers, especially phosphorus.

BEEF CATTLE MANAGEMENT
If you are not satisfied with your cattle program, better check up on your self. Three areas to consider for improvement could be breeding, feeding and management. If any of these are weak, the whole program suffers.

For improving your breeding program, consider using performance tested bulls. You might try cow herd testing on your farm. Here is a check list to consider in your feeding and management program. Check your pastures, your winter feed, your disease and parasite control program. What about dehorning and castrating? Set up calving on a seasonal basis and stop year-round calving. Consider creep feeding calves. Do a stronger marketing job. Build and maintain good cattle working facilities.

The board also recommends that the Hancock County Power Company an extension of the 16th Section in TP 14-15-7-16 at a minimum of 100 acres.

D. J. Eagan was appointed man of the Pearl River committee. The board adjourned at regular meeting November 1.

American iron and steel companies and other firms spent $92 million for research and development in 1962, according to the National Science Foundation.

Not all steel wire is the same. A display recently held at the National Science Foundation showed wire with 765 different section shapes.
